Govt. Depts owe CESC Rs. 511.23 cr. in power bills

TOP DEFAULTERS

- RDPR Department - Rs. 274.98 crore
- Water Resources Department - Rs. 129.63 crore
- Urban Development Department - Rs. 48.50 crore
- MySugar factory, Mandya - Rs. 34.95 crore

Mysuru, Jan. 4 (RK,SPN & BCT)- While every year electricity tariffs see an upward revision burdening the common man and stringent rules like disconnection are enforced, Government Departments have really not bothered to clear their energy use dues.

In Mysuru region alone, 35 Departments owe a whopping Rs. 511.23 crore to Chamundeshwari Electricity Supply Corporation (CESC).

If a common man, farmer or even apartment complexes and small and medium scale industries do not pay their power bills within the stipulated deadline, they have to live in darkness as CESC teams immediately disconnect power and the supply is restored only after the payment of bills, after much running around. This rule applies only for common citizens and industry managers. There is no one to question the Government Departments and despite many communications sent by CESC, the Departments either seek more time for payment or do not bother at all, expecting a waiver from the Government, citing losses.

Unfortunately, authorities keep mum or display selective memory when it comes to forcing Government offices to clear the bills. CESC controls 27,858 square km of area that comes under Mysuru, Mandya, Chamarajanagar, Kodagu and Hassan and till Nov. 31, 2020, the dues have mounted up to Rs. 511.23 crore.

A major defaulter in paying electricity bills is the Rural Development and Panchayat Raj Department that owes CESC Rs. 274.98 crore and second in the list is Water Resources Department including the Cauvery Neeravari Nigama Limited (CNNL) that has dues up to Rs. 129.63 crore.

Other major defaulters are the Urban Development Department including the Mysuru City Corporation (streetlight wing) that has to pay Rs. 48.50 crore and Industries and Commerce Department (MySugar in Mandya) that owes Rs. 34.95 crore. The Minor Irrigation Department owes Rs. 6.67 crore and drinking water project installations at villages have pending dues that run up to Rs. 7.24 crore.

Defaulting Departments include the Education Department (Rs. 1.13 crore), Public Works Department (PWD - Rs. 10 lakh) and the Department of Health (Rs. 1.71 crore). Interestingly, the Law Department owes money to CESC though the pending dues are Rs. 13 lakh.

Now, Vijayanagar 3rd Stage property owners can get Khatas at MCC

District Minister S.T. Somashekar and MLA G.T. Devegowda handing over building licence to Mahadev Khanapuri, a resident of Vijayanagar 3rd Stage, this morning. Others seen are MUDA Chairman H.V. Rajeev, Mayor Sunanda Palanetra, MUDA Commissioner Dr. D.B. Natesh and MCC Commissioner G. Lakshmikantha Reddy.

Mysuru, Jan. 4 (RKB&DM)- In a big relief for residents of Vijayanagar 3rd Stage, the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) today set at rest all confusions over Khata registration concerning about 1,500 landed properties in the locality by bringing all revenue transactions under its cover with immediate effect.

Out of the nearly 3,500 landed properties in Vijayanagar 3rd Stage, the MCC had issued Khata Registration, Khata Transfer, Building Licence, Trade Licence etc., for about 2,000 properties, while leaving out the transactions of 1,500 properties to the discretion of the Government as these properties did not come under its purview.

This action left owners of the 1,500 properties inconvenienced as they were left wondering whether to get the transactions done at MCC, MUDA or the newly formed Hootagalli CMC (City Municipal Council).

Alarm bells set off as 33 test COVID positive in S'patna

Srirangapatna, Jan. 4 (Vinay Karekura&BCT)- In a fresh outbreak of Coronavirus, 33 people tested positive for COVID-19 since the last two days in Srirangapatna and 27 of them had returned from Tamil Nadu where they had been to attend a religious event. A majority of the infected are women and children.

The outbreak has alarmed the Srirangapatna Taluk Administration and as a precaution, all those who have tested positive have been isolated. Hectic efforts are on to trace the primary and secondary contacts.

The main religious event is being held at Tamil Nadu and two more bus-loads of people who had gone there from Srirangapatna are on their way back today or tomorrow. Added to the woes, over 200 more people are awaiting to go to the neighbouring State.

Over 500 people, most of them women and children, have come to Srirangapatna from various parts of Mysuru and Mandya to attend the religious event. After preliminary rituals here they go to Tamil Nadu.

Taluk Health Officer (THO) N.K. Venkatesh told Star of Mysore that the outbreak was detected as a few persons who returned from Tamil Nadu underwent RT-PCR test. "We have isolated all of them and the devotees who are coming back to Srirangapatna in buses today or tomorrow will be screened and tested as soon as they arrive here before they head home. In case they test positive, they too will be isolated," he said.

Soon after the cases were detected, teams from Revenue and Police Departments are visiting houses and personally requesting people not to go to the neighbouring State. "We are trying our best to convince them and they are being told about the dangers to them and to their family members," Venkatesh added.

While the virus has evolved to stay ahead, have we? Evolution may be noticeable only on longer time scales for species like the homo sapiens, but these are times of a collective threat that calls for tapping all reserve powers of survival. The survival protocols at individual and community levels are known and need to be followed. The more difficult task is to change ourselves so that we care for the neighbour, the neighbour's neighbour, and others. That caring is the vaccine for the world. It will beat not just this mean virus from the world's depths but other viruses from our own minds that move at the speed of thought to damage the world we live in. Lost economies can be repaired but a world lost to viruses of exclusion and hatred is difficult to mend. Let the New Year clear the world and our minds of malign viruses of all kinds.

A 132-tonne boulder that anyone can move

Huelgoat: The famous Trembling Rock of Huelgoat forest, in northeastern France, is a 7-meter-long, 137-tonne block of granite that anyone can move with their own hands, as long as they know how to push it.

The forest of Huelgoat is home to numerous large boulders and geological wonders, but Trembling Rock is by far the most popular of them all. The oblong boulder is so large and heavy that no human could ever hope to move it by themselves and yet anyone, regardless of how skinny or weak they are, can gently rock it up and down just by pushing on the right spot. Left perched atop a much wider rock base in a unique position, Trembling Rock can make even the most feeble person on Earth look like the strongest person in the world.

Artist creates steampunk inspired masks

Odesa: Dmitry Bragin is a Ukrainian artist who specialises in steampunk masks that make the wearer look more machine than man.

While most of Dmitry Bragin's stunning-looking masks aren't technically steampunk, as they contain no moving parts, it's clear that the sci-fi genre served as the main inspiration for them.

The talented artist starts off with a flimsy plastic mask that's easy to shape as his base and adds all sorts of decorative elements to it in order to transform it into the wearable wonders you see below. The materials in his arsenal range from motorcycle parts and discarded camera lenses to metallic children's toys, although you couldn't really tell by looking at the finished product.

Falling balustrades on Raja Marga: A suggestion

Sir,

This refers to the weekly column 'Over a cup of evening tea' on the remains of the fallen Raja Marga balustrades (SOM dated Oct. 24, 2021). The enormous tragedy is nobody can file an FIR on a system that has grown flabby over the years and gradually depravity setting in.

For the politicians, corruption has become a badge of honour for they have become beyond the pale of accountability while the bureaucrats with rare exceptions have caught the contagion and content to serve their masters to safeguard their interests. As regards engineers, less said the better. Of course in this system, can the role of contractors be omitted?

The net result is all of them in the system have received a protective brush of corruption paint that a best solvent cannot dissolve.

Come to think of it, how could the authorities think of the granite balustrades that cannot withstand the rush in a place milling with Dasara crowd year after year? Apart from it, architecturally speaking it was a contrast to the Palace compound wall comprising metal gates and topping. An appropriate one would have been a metal walkway that could be robust and withstand crowd pressure.

Even now it is not too late to change it instead of attempting to repair the so-called ornate granite balustrades which can never withstand crowd pressure.

Speaking to reporters here at Sambra Airport in Belagavi yesterday, Bommai said, "People travelling to the State should have a double vaccination certificate and are insisting on a negative RT-PCR test certificate. Some travellers may face inconvenience. But these steps are unavoidable in view of the health of the people of the State."

He said: "We have to be prepared to face any possible situation besides prevention. There was a shortage of oxygen during the first and second wave of the pandemic in the State. Therefore, I have discussed with the medical oxygen manufacturing companies and ensured proper supply."

The Government has now contacted the oxygen plants to supply oxygen to the State, the Chief Minister said adding, the hospitals have been asked to spruce up their oxygen plants and ICU beds. BJP and JD(S) are scared of Mekedatu Padayatra: Siddu

Mysuru, Jan. 4 (RKB&DM)- Asserting that BJP and the JD(S) are scared of the Mekedatu padayatra being taken out by the Congress, Opposition leader and former Chief Minister Siddharamaiah said both the parties are targeting the Congress out of fear of rising popularity of the Congress.

He was speaking at the Congress Membership Drive and Mekedatu Janandolana Rally organised by the City and District Congress Units at Congress Bhavan here yesterday.

Contending that the Congress is not taking out the padayatra for political gains, he said that however, at the same time it cannot be ruled out that the Congress would politically benefit from the padayatra and as such both the BJP and JD(S) are getting nervous.

Arguing that the JD(S) is becoming weaker by the day at its bastion (the old Mysuru region), and is fast losing the confidence of people, he charged JD(S) leader H.D. Kumaraswamy of making wild and baseless allegations against the Congress.

Referring to Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai terming the padayatra as a political gimmick, Siddharamaiah said that the Congress which has the history of getting independence for the country, does not need any gimmicks. Wondering whether the JD(S) had any part in the freedom struggle, he said that the BJP and the JD(S) leaders must realise that they could get power only because of the Constitution scripted by Dr. B.R. Ambedkar.

Charging that the autonomy to Muzrai temples, introduction of Anti-Conversion Bill and the like are all part of RSS agenda, he alleged that the BJP had failed miserably in finding solutions to long lasting problems. The BJP is bringing only emotional issues to the fore in order to hide real issues and its own failures, he added.

During the inspection, the occupants of such houses are required to co-operate with MUDA staff by producing documents of houses for verification and scrutiny. Legal action will be initiated against those who do not present documents and not co-operate with MUDA staff during inspection, the release said.

Show of strength only for Mekedatu Project: DKS

Mysuru, Jan.4 (RKB&DM)- Accusing the BJP of trying to stall the Congress party's Mekedatu padayatra, KPCC President D.K. Shivakumar (DKS) asserted that the padayatra would not stop, come what may.

Addressing the Party's Janandolana Meet and Membership Drive at Congress Bhavan near the City Railway Station yesterday, Shivakumar said the Congress will be taking out the 10-day padayatra from Jan.9 with the theme 'Mekedatu is our water project and also our right.'

Charging the BJP of making all attempts to stop the padayatra, DKS said that the Congress will continue its fight until the Mekedatu water project is executed. Pointing out that the project will benefit people of Bengaluru city, Mysuru, Chamarajanagar, Mandya, Hassan, Kodagu, Tumakuru and Kolar districts, he alleged that the BJP was using all tricks in its bag to place hurdles for the 160-km-long padayatra. Noting that the padayatra will cover over 15 kms a day, he said that all the participants will be issued a certificate.

Contending that the padayatra is an apolitical one, he called upon people from all age groups, all sections of society and all walks of life to take part.

KPCC Working President R. Dhruvanarayan, former Minister Dr. H.C. Mahadevappa, MLAs Tanveer Sait, Dr. Yathindra Siddharamaiah, Anil Chikkamadu and H.P. Manjunath, MLC Dr. D. Thimmaiah, former MLAs Vasu, M.K. Somashekar & Kalale Keshavamurthy and other leaders were present.

MUDA evicts illegal occupant of house at Devanur

After the eviction, MUDA authorities erected a board at the site mentioning that the property belonged to MUDA. The value of the property is estimated at about Rs.40 lakh. MUDA Zonal Officer H.P. Nandini ghee adulteration racket

Minister deflects blame from MyMUL to agents

Mysuru, Jan. 4 (MK&BCT)- Coming to the rescue of Mysuru District Cooperative Milk Producers' Societies' Union Limited (MyMUL) that is under fire for failing to prevent the thriving fake Nandini ghee racket, one of which was exposed on Dec. 20 at a factory at Hosahundi village, Mysuru District Minister S.T. Somashekar has shifted the blame on Nandini agents.

"There is no involvement of MyMUL officials or staff but we are suspecting the role of agents who distribute Nandini products in the racket. It is the agents who reach the Nandini products to the end-consumers and their role in the adulteration rackets cannot be ruled out and the Police are investigating the root of the racket," he said addressing reporters at MyMUL Office last evening where he also held a meeting with the officials.

In case the Police investigation uncovers certain MyMUL officials and staff, if they are involved in the racket, they will be dismissed from service and their properties would be attached, the Minister added.

After the ghee adulteration racket was discovered, the Police have arrested four members and based on the information given by them, the Police have uncovered similar ghee products in Bengaluru, Mysuru and Tumakuru. "We will not spare anyone involved in the racket," he added. The Karnataka Milk Federation (KMF) is known for quality products and its Nandini brand ghee is used worldwide and also at Tirupati Temple to make Prasadam. "KMF has its own consumer base and over 5 crore people are consuming its products," he said.

Special vigilance squads

On the future security steps to be undertaken in the wake of the racket, the Minister, who also heads the Cooperation Department, said that special vigilance squads have been formed comprising officers of KMF and Food Safety and Standards Authority of India (FSSAI) to check any illegal activity. "The vigilance squads will have full power to raid any of the 14 Milk Unions and can take action against any illegality," he said.

"KMF officers have explained different types of adulteration and we are working to change the packaging to protect products. An Expert Committee has been formed to change the Nandini ghee product packaging design, introduce QR codes and holograms to prevent adulteration. The team is working on it," Somashekar said.

He has also appealed to the general public to inform the authorities when they come across the sale of Nandini ghee and other products for a lower price. KMF squads have already seized over 8,700 litres of Nandini ghee from three different stores and sent the samples for tests from different laboratories, including Mysuru-based Central Food Technological Research Institute (CFTRI), he added.

DC Dr. Bagadi Gautham, KMF Managing Director B.C. Satish, MyMUL President P.M. Prasanna, Managing Director B.N. Vijay Kumar, Addl. SP R. Shivakumar and others were present.

16-year-old boy becomes victim of black magic

Murder case registered against seven suspects including two minors

Nanjangud, Jan. 4 (CM & BCT)- A 16-year-old boy lost his life allegedly due to black magic as the parents have stated in the Police complaint that their son was lured by his friends to a lake and killed him there.

The incident was reported at a lake in Halepura village in Nanjangud from where the boy's body has been fished out. He has been identified as Mahesh alias Manu, son of Siddaraju of Hemmaragala village. A murder case has been registered against seven persons including two minor friends of Mahesh.

In his complaint, Siddaraju has stated that his son went out of the house on Sunday, the Amavasya day and his two friends lured Mahesh to the lake in the guise of washing a car. One of his friends owned the car and Mahesh readily agreed.

Siddaraju has alleged that his son was a victim of black magic as materials including a doll made of clay, a clay pot, and signs of rooster sacrifice were found on the banks of the lake. He has said that certain families in the village believed that there would be prosperity if a human was 'sacrificed' on Amavasya day.

He has stated in the complaint that one of such families would have killed his son. The Kavalande Police have registered a murder case against seven suspects and Police sources said that arrests would be made soon after collecting clues.

Meanwhile, Additional Superintendent of Police R. Shivakumar said that Mahesh drowned in the lake at Halepura while playing with three of his friends. "I have asked the jurisdictional Police to file the FIR and we are verifying the statement given by the boy's father and also we are speaking to his family members," he said.

Cows killed in tiger attack at Kodagu, H.D. Kote

Ponnampet / H.D. Kote, Jan. 4 (KS)- In separate incidents, tigers have attacked and killed two cows at Bellur village in Ponnampet of Kodagu district and at Antharasanthe village in H.D. Kote taluk recently.

In the first incident, a tiger, which raided a cow shed at Bellur, has killed a pregnant cow on Jan. 1 night. The cow belonged to Mallangada M. Dharmaja of the village and following the incident, fear has gripped the villagers, who are now afraid to come out of their houses after dark.

Though the tiger has not been spotted till now, it raided the cow shed last night, killed the cow and has fled from the spot. The incident came to light when Dharmaja went to the cow shed on Jan. 2 morning and found his pregnant cow killed. There are pug marks around the house of Dharmaja and also in the cow shed.

Forest Department officials inspected the place and have placed a camera trap near Dharmaja's house. Villagers have urged the Forest officials to trap the tiger at the earliest and provide relief to the villagers.

In the second case, a tiger, which attacked a cow left for grazing, has killed it. The incident took place at Antharasanthe in H.D. Kote and the cow belongs to one Govindaraju of the village, who had purchased the cow for Rs. 54,000 recently.

Govindaraju had tied the cow in an agricultural land behind Mahadeshwara Temple at the village for grazing when the tiger attacked the cow and killed it besides devouring a part of the cow. The incident came to light, when Govindaraju went to the field on Sunday morning and saw the cow killed.

Antharasanthe Wildlife Division Forest officials, who visited the spot, conducted an inspection, found pug marks of the tiger. Antharasanthe Wildlife Division Forest official Siddaraju, speaking to Star of Mysore, said that staff have been deployed where the tiger was spotted and added that camera traps have been installed to track the movement of the tiger. He said that future course of action will be taken based on the guidance from the higher officials besides stating that compensation would be provided to the owner of the cow.

Town Municipal Council Standing Committee President H.C. Narasimhamurthy, Forest staff Antony, Sunil and Kallaiah, NGO representative Dhanush and others were present.

What it takes to be a leader? –1

Concern, Confidence and Courage?

We often hear the refrain 'leadership crisis.' When Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru was the Prime Minister and Vallabhbhai Patel was not there, we heard political pundits asking, 'After Nehru who?' A foreign journalist and author Welles Hangen had even written a book with that title in 1963, a year before Nehru died. Why this anxiety? Was India fearing a 'leadership crisis' after Nehru?

It almost seemed so when Nehru died. Mercifully, India found a leader to succeed Nehru, after a stop-gap Prime Minister Gulzarilal Nanda, in Lal Bahadur Shastri. Many political pundits and the Congress party members had their own fears about the choice of their Leader. Of course, soon their fears were belied... that is another story.

However, these events naturally raise the question: Who is a leader? What are his attributes?

It is said about greatness of a person in the following manner: Some are born great, some achieve greatness and greatness is thrust upon some. Same can be said of leadership too.

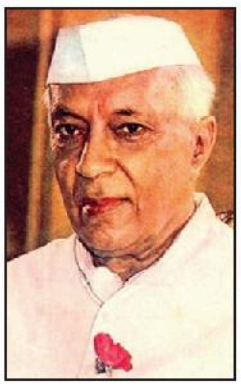
Leadership is always political and military. A Monarch, President or Prime Minister or a General. But greatness is what one achieves in a given field of activity — science, art, industry or literature.

In history, we find some born leaders. But there are some born to a dynasty masquerading as leaders. However, without leadership qualities, they are sooner or later dislodged and cast in the dustbins of history, no matter they are kings or political activists. There are also people who become leaders because of their concern, confidence and courage. Concern to the people and the followers. Confidence to lead the people in times of peace and war. And courage to accept challenges and fight.

I am of the opinion that leadership can be thrust upon anyone, a blighter or from a dynasty. But if it is done, this leader will soon be deserted by the people and forgotten. We have seen this happen in the world history, whether from monarchies or from among the contenders for leadership in democracies. Our own democracy has seen this happen over the last 75 years of its existence. Which is why we have had Prime Ministers whose life in office was too short like the ephemeral insects that are born in the morning and gone by evening. People generally mock at this category of leaders. They are not taken seriously. Stop-gap leaders!

Alexander the Great



Jawaharlal Nehru

A true leader, history tells us, is one who is feared, hated or loved. Such leaders are always obeyed and respected. Because, they lead from the front. They infuse confidence among their men, soldiers and officers. Nobody likes a weak leader nor those who do not inspire the people to march to defend the country or conquer another or to work for the development of the country. Nehru and now Modi are indeed inspirational leaders.

Be that as it may, let me give some examples from history where individuals became great leaders because of certain leadership qualities in them.

Leadership is a special quality. One cannot learn it in a school or college. It is innate, one is born with it. They inspire people to do extraordinary things. Which is why we find people of humble origins, like our Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who rise above their colleagues to lead an army, party or country.

Let me illustrate these musings on leadership with a few examples. Take Alexander the Great. He was born to the fourth wife of the Macedonian King Philip II. He was born on 20th July, 356 BC. The great Greek Philosopher Aristotle was his tutor.

An early example of Alexander's courage concerns his famous and favourite horse by name Bucephalus. It was a beautiful thoroughbred. It was brought to the court to be sold to King Philip, but was so wild that no one could ride him. Alexander was ten years old then. But looking at the horse, realised very quickly that the horse was frightened by its own shadow.

Alexander approached the horse Bucephalus, turned him so that he was facing the sun. Naturally, his shadow fell behind him. Alexander, then, calmly climbed on to his back. Common-sense and courage. A born leader?

Alexander's father Philip, King of Macedonia, ruled the City-States of Greece as the leader of The League of Corinth. When he died, the Greeks rebelled but Alexander, just age of nineteen, went into action at once and put down the rebellion and assumed the throne. Leadership? Remember Kashmir in 1948 and 1972? We were winning but...

Another example of Alexander's leadership quality: He marches into the ancient capital of Phrygian Gordium. Legend says that whoever untied the knot, known as 'Gordian Knot,' would become the king of Asia. Alexander, the pragmatist, like all before him, could not untie the Knot. But being one never to give up, he simply took his sword and sliced it in half. Considered a problem solving technique, it is known as the Alexanderian solution!

In 331 BC, Alexander arrived in Egypt and landed on its shores in hot summer to find a hostile desert. His soldiers were tired and thirsty. But where and how to find potable water in that wilderness?

He sent out his soldiers to find a water hole and fetch water. One soldier returned and gave Alexander the water, filled in his helmet, beseeching him to drink.

Alexander received the helmet of water, held it high above in front of his soldiers waiting on the desert sand under a merciless hot sun. Then saying, 'How can I have this water when you are thirsty,' Alexander splashed the water in the helmet on the desert sand. And there was a thunderous cheering in praise of Alexander. A great leader?

Alexander was fed with the myth that in India there were saints who knew the secret of becoming immortal and he wanted to be immortal. He found a saint who was urged to reveal him the secret of becoming immortal. The saint reluctantly obliged. Alexander departed to find the lake with elixir of life which when consumed, one would become immortal. He finds the lake, takes water in his cupped-palms and was about to drink when an aerial voice cautions him not to drink as his life would be miserable if he survived all his people and left alone as an old immortal. He lets the water drain down between his fingers and returns. A good listener. A true leader?

It is said that he who lives by the sword dies by the sword. Hermann Hesse mentions this in his book Siddhartha. Alexander lived by the sword as history records. But he did not die by the sword. He died by a common fever at the young age of 32. His instruction for his funeral was eloquent about his wisdom, learnt from his life's journey so far. He told his undertakers, 'make two holes on either side of the coffin to keep my hands visible outside for people to see and keep my palms open. This will convey the message that howsoever a great leader you are, when you leave this world, you leave empty handed, with nothing. A great leader? A wise leader?

OZ debutant Scott Boland consigns English to 'ashes'

at MCG in 'Ashes Series' downunder

Scott Boland celebrating a wicket in his maiden Test.

At the 'Boxing Day Test', Scott Boland, the only 2nd male Aborigine, after Jason Gillespie, skittled the Englishmen running through the side in a devastating spell of 4 - 1 - 7 - 6 in the 2nd inning. It was a treat to watch. Every wicket was purchased — with immaculate line, length and bounce — than anything given away. Befittingly, he received the 'Player of the Match' and the Johnny Mullagh Medal commemorating 1868 tour of Aborigines to England. Incidentally, Mullagh was a fine Victorian all-rounder on that tour and was inducted into 'Australian Cricket Hall of Fame' in the year 2020; posthumously.

It is apt to mention here that Andrew Symonds is/ was mistaken to be an Aborigine and the 1st to have represented the OZs. In fact, Symonds history traces its root to the Carribbean; where an English couple seemed to have adopted him while he was a baby. Well, on to cricket now.

It was an abject surrender by the English at the iconic MCG; in the 1st session of day 3; of the 3rd Test of the Ashes Series; having lost by an inning and 14 runs. Earlier, they had lost at Gabba by 9 wickets; a huge margin and at Adelaide by 275 runs; again a huge margin — not consistent with English in an Ashes Series.

English selectors lost the plot in the 1st Test itself. Beginning the series with the best pacers and aiming for the proverbial 'Kill' spells the much-needed momentum in such hard-fought series. It all started at the Gabba, Brisbane, where for reasons best known to the English selectors they went in without Jimmy Anderson and Stuart Broad; their best pacers over a decade. That was compounded by lack of substance in the top three batsmen; rendering the middle order highly vulnerable. Huge Loss at Gabba weighed heavily on the minds of the English. Rest is history now. In as much as it is a challenge in the world of finding a genuine opening batting pair, it has been so to the English too. Neither of Habeeb, Burns and/ or Crawley bear the class of openers; shaky and in self doubt. Middle order in Skipper Root and Malan were good but in patches. Pope, Stokes, Buttler, Bairstow were all very ordinary.

For the OZs, David Warner and Steve Smith seem to have overcome the miserable memories of the IPL. Both had to be dropped on account of poor form. In the Ashes, Warner missed a hundred twice and Smith once. Great recovery. Labuschagne added sheen with two 50s and one hundred and continues his phenomenal ride. His Test record reads 21 Tests, 12 fifties and 7 hundreds averaging over 60; stupendous. While Boland deserves all the credit, OZ skipper Pat Cummins and Mitchell Starc were lethal too. That Nathan Lyon didn't have to bowl a single over in the 2nd innings of the 3rd Test is a proof of dominance of OZ seamers.

Switching on the TV at 5.30 in the morning was refreshing; Gabba to the MCG — save the Pink Ball Day Night Test at Adelaide. It was all 'Kabhi Khushi Kabhi Gham'; for a cricket lover that I am. Now, watching our boys at the Centurion, South Africa — and praying for victory in the 1st Test.

Bengaluru's Vinodh Kumar runs from Bengaluru to Mysuru to create awareness on blood donation

Mysuru, Jan. 4 (MTY&BNR)- Following the COVID outbreak, number of people turning for blood donation has reduced and hence, to create awareness on the same and to encourage people to come forward for blood donation, a Bengalurean began the New Year 2022 by running from Bengaluru to Mysuru to draw the attention of people towards blood donation.

S. Vinodh Kumar, who has been donating blood for the past 20-plus years and has donated blood 74 times till now, is the one who wanted to create awareness that we can donate blood even in these tough times.

To spread this message, Vinodh started the mission — Run for Blood. Run from Bengaluru to Mysuru with Lions Club — LionsBloodLine support team.

Vinodh started his run at 12 am on Jan. 1, 2022, from Vidhana Soudha, Bengaluru. He reached Kengeri at 2.30 am and proceeded towards Ramanagara. Yuva Brigade, NIE-IT youths clean Lingambudhi Lake Road footpath

Mysuru, Jan. 4 (BCT)- Once an idyllic little city, Mysuru prided itself on its leisure and laid-back outlook to life where walking predominated among the modes of getting from one place to the other. Now the city is no longer a haven for pedestrians, thanks to unusable pavements both at the city centre and even on the arterial roads.

While footpaths are broken, uneven and with gaping holes on many roads in central areas, arterial roads that lead to residential pockets are fully covered with weeds and dirt. Take the Lingambudhi Lake Road for example, which was full of wild growth, forcing pedestrians to walk on the roads risking their life and limb.

This particular bad pavement caught the attention of Yuva Brigade Student Wing volunteers who along with students of NIE-IT cleaned the entire pavement that extended up to more than 500 metres. The day-long 'shramdaan' was held on Sunday and will continue next Sunday also as more such stretches have to be cleaned in the locality.

Over 55 students from NIE-IT and over 20 Yuva Brigade volunteers cleaned the road that leads from Lingambudhi Lake to Arivu School and collected one truckload of organic and inorganic waste that were sent to processing plants. There are other roads in the stretch including the Srirampura Preeti Layout Junction to Outer Ring Road, touching R.T. Nagar. These roads are preferred by morning and evening walkers and the pavements were not maintained. Parthenium and other weeds have covered the entire footpath and are creating a problem for motorists also as the curves are blocked. Many accidents have taken place with vehicles vrooming past and pedestrians walking on the road in the absence of footpaths.

Convenor of Yuva Brigade Student Unit of Mysuru Prajwal Devaramani, Adarsha, Mahantesh, Skanda, Vinay and Girish, NIE-IT lecturer Harish, Mysuru City Corporation Health Officer Dr. D.G. Nagaraj, Ashwath and staff participated.

WORD OF THE DAY

Milquetoast

Pronunciation: MILK-tohst.
Meaning: A milquetoast is a timid, meek, or unassertive person.
Origin: Caspar Milquetoast is a comic strip character created in 1924 by cartoonist Harold T. Webster. Beginning a few years after the character's debut, the term milquetoast came to describe a timid or meek person. Caspar's last name is fitting because milk toast is a weak, bland concoction of buttered toast served in a dish of warm milk.
Example: "I think if you're likable, sometimes you are like milquetoast. You don't necessarily stand for anything. You don't rub people the wrong way because you have strong opinions...." — Katie Couric

THE ODD WORD

Example: "My friends are off to ski. I missed the boat this time, but I will join them next season."
